Round 1

February 18, 2016

Angelo Que (Phi) – First Round 65 (-6)

I holed a lot of putts and that's what you need to do in a tournament, especially on this course. I did that today. It is hard to hit it close if you miss the fairways. Luckily for me, I read the lines and holed my putts.

I like old style layouts where you have to work the ball a little bit. The course isn't that long and I like that. Malaysia has been good to me. I played well a lot here in Malaysia in the past 14 years.

You don't need to hit a lot of drivers here. You need to keep the ball in play and find your way around the golf course. I like playing that way where you have to think. This week I'm really focussed on what I need to do on the course to stay in the game.

The weather is so much cooler as compared to other Malaysian events we have. It was slightly windy as well. I'm used to the heat but it helps when you play in weather like this.

You can expect some funky colours but I'm still debating on what to wear.
